

50 YEARS OF IMPACT.
50 YEARS OF POSSIBILITIES.

STREET LAW^{INC}

An empowered and equitable society demands that its people have the knowledge and power to advocate for themselves and affect positive change.
Street Law has developed innovative programs and leveraged education for empowerment and justice in all 50 U.S. states and in 45 countries.

WE BUILD CIVIC AGENCY

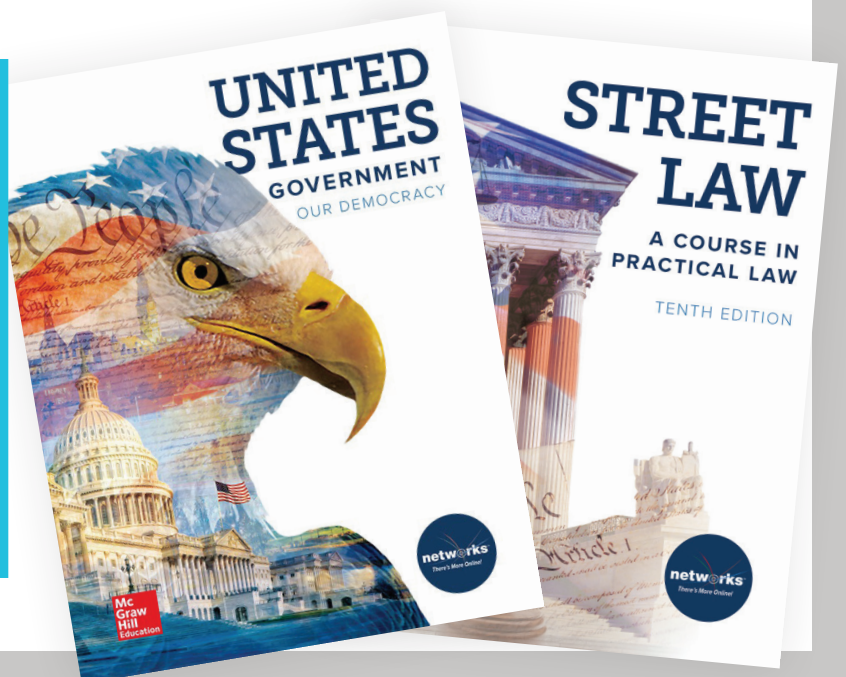

From civic education to civic action, Street Law's work spans schools, communities, and government agencies across the United States and around the world.

We have:

- Equipped thousands of teachers to integrate proven best practices in civic education into their classrooms.
- Built the capacity of public-school systems, educators, and Ministries of Education to deliver civic education and use interactive teaching methodologies.
- Created a high school-level elective law course and authored an accompanying textbook that has been adopted by hundreds of school districts coast-to-coast.
- Pioneered the first high school mock trial competition, which is now a nationwide activity with a program in every state and the District of Columbia.

1 MILLION +

Street Law, Inc. programs and materials reach more than 1 million young people annually.

Before the Street Law program, I didn't even realize that I had rights."

- Yael, Prince George's County, Maryland, USA

WE ADVANCE EQUITY AND JUSTICE

Street Law's community-centered programs and tailored curricula work to empower people who are vulnerable to injustice with essential knowledge and applicable skills to navigate law-saturated societies.

We have:

- Built the capacity of marginalized communities including people who are LGBTQ, survivors of domestic violence, and young people of color with legal life skills to navigate their everyday lives.
- Proliferated the model of public legal education for community empowerment, which is now implemented by 200+ law schools around the globe.
- Partnered with the U.S. Department of Justice to bring Street Law programs to communities, reducing recidivism among youth diverted from the justice system.
- Built a unique legal diversity pipeline program, now replicated in more than 70 sites nationwide.

WE BUILD BRIDGES ACROSS DIFFERENCES

Street Law cultivates the skills that help people grapple with contentious issues through proven methodologies and interscholastic and intercultural exchanges.

We have:

- Introduced Street Law's interactive methodologies for discussing contested public policy in school systems.
- Developed the Police & Teens Program, which allows young people and law enforcement to engage in constructive dialogue.
- Facilitated intercultural exchanges between educators across continents.
- Collaborated with local experts throughout the Middle East and North Africa to develop a textbook and educational campaign on the intersection between Islam and democracy.

My students were able to not only express their opinion, but they were able to understand other perspectives."

— KELLY, AURORA, COLORADO, USA

Further implementation of [Street Law] methods in our country will show big results in upgrading the culture of justice of the population.”

- GULYZ, LAW STUDENT, TASHKENT, UZBEKISTAN

WE FOSTER DEMOCRATIC CULTURE

Street Law's programs empower the next generation to become critical thinkers on issues of rule of law, democracy, equity, and justice.

We have:

- Introduced a practical education model for teaching about democracy, seeding a movement that brought Street Law to 45 countries.
- Partnered with the Annenberg Public Policy Center at the University of Pennsylvania to bring rule of law education to schools across the United States.
- Built capacity of educators, young people, community organizations, and government agencies in multiple countries around rule of law, human rights, and corruption.
- Developed youth action programs and curricula to teach advocacy strategies.

OUR PLAN FOR THE FUTURE

Society is reckoning with crises of inequity, justice, civic life, rule of law, and, perhaps most alarmingly, a widening division among people.

Building on 50 years of learning, Street Law, Inc. envisions a world where everyone has the knowledge and power to shape a more just and equitable society. Over the next decade, we commit to...

- Double down on our proven civic and law-related education programs and expand them to elementary schools and community colleges.
- Create opportunities to translate civic education to civic action.
- Prioritize efforts that enable people to work across differences in search of common ground.
- Improve access to our programs, particularly to communities vulnerable to marginalization, racism, and injustice.
- Build the capacity of communities around rule of law through the lens of people-centered justice.
- Galvanize our national and global networks to achieve system-level impact.

We cannot achieve it alone. We look forward to partnering with you.
